OTANDING DEFEATS PETTITT.

THE BACQUET CLUB'S YOUNG MARKER WINS THE FINAL MATCH.

A Strong Game Pot Up by the Boston Player, but He Is Heaten by Three Sets to Love-The Play Not as Past as in Previous Matches Quipg to Dampuers.

There was a great gathering of club men at the Racquet and Tennis Club in West Fortythird street yesterday afternoon, when George Standing, the young English marker of the club, and Tom Pettitt, the well-known Boston professional, met in the third and final game of racqueta for a purse of $150 presented by Mr. Bayard Thayer of Boston. Each man had one match to his credit, Standing baving won the first game in this city on April 15 by three sets to one, while Pettitt took the second one in Boston, on the courts of the Boston Athletic Association, by three sets to two.

Opinion seemed to be about equally divided as to the merits of the two men, and the betting was about even when the men stepped into the courts. When play was called at 3 o'clock the galleries were crowded to suffocation and late comers were forced to stand.

The Boston contingent were on hand early.

headed by Dr. H. C. Haven, who holds an invitation tournament on his private grounds at Nahant each year. Among the other Hubbites present, who came on to cheer Pettitt to victory, were H. H. Hunnewell, Edward Grey, and F. G. Curtis, all well-known racquet officers from the Blake, Australia, and other British vessels now in the harbor were inter-

In addition to the above, a number of the officers from the Blake. Australia, and other British vessels now in the harbor wore interested spectators of the game as the guests of the Racquet Club. Among the well-known New Yorkers present were:

V. A. Blacque, J. T. Atterbury, Isaac Townsend, H. K. Bloodgood, Benjamin Nicoll. D. Iamsen Officer, H. G. McVeker, Charles A. Munn, Cecil Baring, John Bloodgood, Jr., W. T. Lawson, James Brown Lord, Charles Lyman, Y. Martinez, H. Mailland Kerser, E. B. Kirkland, Henry E. Bloyt, F. J. Hynes, Duncan Ellot, S. B. French, Louis M. Greer, H. de Coppet, B. S. de Garmendia, M. Hoyt, H. S. Bloodgood, William E. Girn, Wendell Goodwin, William T. Gray, James R. M. Grosvenor, W. Butler Duncan, Jr. Standing seemed to be in grant form and surprised the Bostonians by beating their champion in three straight sets. Petitit blaged very well, but the dampness seemed to affect his style of game more than it did Standings. The balls were very doad and the walls seemed to be damn, which made the play seem far more slew than in the gravious matches.

In Addition to this Petitit is accustomed to playing off a red wall, whereas the walls of the Bacquet Club courters black, and he undoubtedly lost a number of strokes through mistaking his distance. Petitit won the toss, and went in to serve. Standing, however, retired him without scoring, with a well-placed ball near the tell tale, and the New Yorker following one with eight pretty ones, w as he went in, ran the game out with a run of five.

The second game was very short. Standing scoring in almost every hand, making two runs of three, three runs of one, and one run of six, and winning the game in the seventh hand by a score of 15 to 7.

The third and what proved to be the final game of the day was by far the best of the let, being full of good play, long rallies, and phenomenal placing. Pettitt showed up a little the stronger toward the end, but could not overcome standing's lead; as a result the New Yorker won the game by a score of 15 to 12 and with it the match and purse by three sets to love. The score follows:

To the EDITOR OF THE SUN-Sir: In an' artiele on your sporting page of this date I notice that the writer advocates an interpretation of the pitching rule of the League code differing from the strict letter of the law as laid down in the rule governing the delivery of the ball and he also states that the rule in question admits of a double stop being taken in such delivery. As the rule reads now it plainly prohibits any step being taken by the pitcher while he has one foot on the 12-inch-by-4 space, except in delivering the ball to the bat, and this rule debars him from taking a step to throw to first, second, or third base.

Of course when his feet is not on the space question, he can take any step he chooses o throw to any base except the home base t when he takes any step to throw the ball to the bateman he must have his pivot foot on the 12 by 4 space, otherwise he plainly commits a balk. I cannot possibly see how the rule can be interpreted so as to admit of the forward step referred to a which is virtually a double step. One step in delivery has been the rule for years, and no double step is admissable under citizer the old or the new rule. As the pitching rule now reads, it practically transfers, the onus of allowing the runner to steal families to second or second to third from the pitcher to the catcher, for the former cannot legally throw from his position to catch a runner napping with any hope of success under the new rule. This will make throwing attents a greater necessity than ever before.

I do not see how any ampire can assume the right to deolde any disputed point on the question of a balk except in accordance with the strict letter of the law, as quoted in the article of this morning. The President has no right to change the rule, that being left to the Rules Committee of the League and they can only do it by a two-thirds vote of the League clubs. It will have to be abided by as it is. As to the practical effect of the increased distance of the pitcher from the batman, the change has but filted effect on the pitchers, and it will not increase the batting to any marked extent, but it is of great advantage to been runner, as the runner has only to reach first in safely to insure his early stealing of second and third bases. Yours truly.

The members of the New Jersey Yacht Club are very busy just now, preparing for their opening on Monday, when the club flag will be formally bauled aloft for the first time this season. A number of improvements have been made to the club fleet during the winter months, and by the time the season opens all will be glistening in new coats of paint and varnish. The cabin sloop Lottie, owned by James E. Drew, has a new cabin trunk, new suit of sails, and has been theroughly overhauled and will be put overboard in about ten days.

Fletcher, the well-known Hoboken boat suit of sails, and has been thoroughly overhauled and will be put overboard in about ten days.

Fletcher, the well-known Hoboken boat builder, has practically completed the alterations to Commodore F. S. Ketchum's Charm. She has been fitted with a new keel, centreboard trank, and garboard streaks. It will he remembered that last year she was raised six inches, and that the improvements made her very fast, so fast, in fact, that she won nearly every race in which she took part last year. She will be put overboard in time for the orening sail of the club on Decoration Day, and is expected to be faster than ever. The sleop Vixen, owned by Louis Wunder, has been overhauled at Hansen's yard at the foot of Fourteenth street, Hoboken. She has received a new oak keel, new rudder, and a new companionway of mahogany, and skylights. She will have a new jib and kitea, and is expected to be faster than ever. She is now being painted and will be out next week. The fast rabin cut Henry Gray, owned by excommodore John Ortilet, has been fitted with a skag, beginning at the centreboard slot and running alt to the rudder. It measures about six inches at the after end. It is thought that while this skag may prove of some help, it would have been far better to have given her a deener one, say of twelve or eighteen inches. Henry Snyder has altered his open cat Nymph into a cabin boat and expects to de some cruising in her this summer. At the regular monthly meeting of the club on Thursday evening a number of new members were added to the roll, among them being Leon Abbett, Jr. The contract for building a new float, 20x40 feet, was also nwarded, and work will at once be commenced on it.

New Brunswick Birds Won.

The most spirited cocking main of the season in Middlesek county took place Friday night The main was for $500, and consisted of seven battles between Rahway and New Brunswick. A large crowd was present and all the old veteraus, including "Old Hat," de-clared that they never saw gamer cocks or more exciting contests.

In the first battle New Brunswick pitted a six-pound white pyle against a six-pound-four hackle shown by Hahway, and although blinded in both eyes the Brunswick cock killed the Rahway bird in twenty-five minutes. Bruns wick showed a black henny and liahway a black red, both at four pounds eight, for the second battle, and the henny won in thirty second battle, and the henny won in thirty minutes. On the third battle the Rahway contingent placed all their money, giving odds of to 2 on the fight, their white hackle having won five successive fights, but his day had come, and Brunswick took the wealth on the victory of their dominick in thirty minutes.

Rahway won the fourth and fifth battles, after prolonged tussies in which their pyles proved better than Brunswick's "hennies," and betting stood 5 to 4 on Brunswick for the main. The next two fights were shorter and were both won by Brunswick making the secre 5 to 2 in their favor. "Old Hat" and his braves went home in poor spirits, as they thought they had a "dead cinch," butthey had the satisfaction of seeing the gamest fights over witnessed in this section.

"Say, I think Mitchell will give Corbett a hard battle. I don't want to express myself as to who will win, for they are both friends of mine and are fellow professionals. But I have my opinion, and no doubt you can guess what it is. I have grown somewhat and become quite stout since you saw me last. I am feelike a two-year-old, though, and, save for the fatigue and incidental things connected with travel, my life is a happy one. You ought to see the Parson act. Why, he's a Jim dandy, and you would think, if you saw him on the stage, that he was an old-timer at the business. The Parson is sure that Corbett wouldn't take me on. He doesn't believe (and I am herinning to think that way myself) that the champion will ever fight me. Choyneki and I are sparring partners, and Joe is in fine form. He doesn't have to act to any exient, but he's got more than the ordinary intelligence. Joe wants to light Fitz in the worst way, and thinks he can do him.

"There is one drawback in being an actor. We have appeared, and some of the reopie that come to see us, especially the callery hors, are indeed very funny. They 'kid' me a little, but it's so good-natured that I don't mind it. When the Parson lashes me, the boys un above yell that I should strike out with my left, unpercut him, and kno for I'm sure I should have gone on the stage

Stirling St., Aberdsen, Jan. 17, 1803.
Gentlemen: You will remember sending me a No. I Pneumatic Sanaparell Road lacer last year, geared to 70 in. I rode this machine myself, and covered nearly 7,000 miles on it. I never had a repair of any sort to do either to it or the tire, and I now want your bottom prices for fifty of the same machines, in cushion or pneumatic tires, as I may require them during the coming season. The machines I had of yours gave such perfect satisfaction that I can safely guarantee to take that number, and hope to greatly exceed it. At the same timequote mefor your new 27-pound ROAD RACER, of which I will require a few. You must meet me as far as ever possible in prices, as competition in Aberdeen is very keen. Yours truly.
